THROWN OUT OF BOAT IN HIGH WATER

noon hour when it was found that the current was too swift to allow the drag hooks and bars to work on the river bottom. Operations were halted again and weights secured to hold down the bars. Early this afternoon but one boat was working in an effort to locate the bodies. Smaller boats were available and were offered for use but it was deemed dangerous to permit the light craft to enter the swift water.

At the noon hour, hundreds lined the river banks on both sides and on the Galena avenue bridge and watched the dragging operations. Throughout the afternoon the crowd gathered and dispersed when the chilly wind became too strong. It was expected that other boats would be added to the rescue work this afternoon and assist in the search.

FIRST DAY OF SPRING
TODAY small dogs will chase their tails.
Bark at their shadows, snap at the wind.
Race with the first chance leaf that falls.
Feeling the sun where their fur has thinned.

And children will get their roller skates.
And their skipping ropes and their painted wagons.
Or set to swinging on rusty gates.
Forgetting old tales of giants and dragons.

But others will go with a dream in their eyes.
And trudge a hill where the air is light.
To fling from the top with shrill brief cries.
The colored magic of a kite.

Sarah Litsey.

"Joining" Decried By Club Official

Detroit (AP)—Women join too many clubs in the opinion of Mrs. Carl B. Chamberlain, herself a prominent club woman and president of the Detroit federation of women's clubs.

"Many women pride themselves on the number of clubs to which they belong," says Mrs. Chamberlain. "One woman of my acquaintance joined three different clubs within a year. Two of the organizations meet at the same hour on the same day and all of the three have similar purposes and interests. This woman cannot hope to be of real value to any one of the three without neglecting the other two."

"If several clubs have different purposes a woman is justified in joining them, but to become a member of a club with no definite object in view except that of being away from one's home every day of the week is to my mind one of the most destructive forces that women's clubs will have to combat as the years go on. The promiscuous joining of clubs is slowly but surely becoming a habit that will eventually have to be dealt with."

PALMYRA MUTUAL AID TO MEET

The Palmyra Mutual Aid Society will meet in an all day meeting on Wednesday in the basement of the Sugar Grove church, the first meeting since December. A good attendance is desired, as there will be work. A picnic dinner will be served at noon.

What Price Beauty? Ask Miss America.

Chicago, Mar. 29—(AP)—What price beauty? Ask Miss America. She was spending $1,825,000.00 for face powder, soaps and cosmetics while her Uncle Sam was paying out $1,617,000 for gun powder and ammunition during the year of 1927.

And officials of the sixth annual Mid-West Beauty Trade Show, to be held in Chicago, April 1, 2 and 3, also point to the fact that mid-lady spent more for these same aids to beauty in 1927 than it cost the state of New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania to meet their budget expenditures in 1926. The total expenses of these states, including the interest charged on bonds, were $272,117,000.

So great has become the demand for beauty culture, says Columbus D. Behan, business manager of the show and announcer of the above statistics, that thousands of beauty culturists and hairdressers from all sections of the United States and Canada will gather in attendance at the show to view the exhibits of the newest in permanent wave machines, reducing apparatus, soap and toilet requisites and supplies of every description used in beauty shops. FISH RECIPE

BY MRS. ADA E. VAIL
Former Assistant U. S. Bureau of Fisheries

HERRING

The herring weigh from 1-2 to 1 pound apiece. We know them well, canned and pickled. They appear in all the salt waters of both Coasts. They are used fresh and smoked. Herring has many other names and numerous varieties. They are rich oily fish. Small ones are used as bait for catching larger fish.

POTTED HERRING
Twenty dressed fresh herring, 2 quarts cider vinegar, 4 teaspoonfuls salt, 1 teaspoonful whole cloves, 1 teaspoonful whole cloves, 1 teaspoonful whole cloves. Put in a stone jar. Four spices and vinegar boiling hot over fish. Set in a warm oven 12 hours. Remove from the oven. In ten days pour off liquid and cover with fresh cold vinegar. This dish is nice for quick lunch, as appetizers, chopped for sandwich filling, or to be used for cold supper.

show is sponsored by the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers Association and the All-American Associated Beauty Schools.

Piling up more statistics in his compendium on beauty, Mr. Behan reveals that during the year of 1927 women also spent $585,157,447 for gowns and dresses, $350,000,000 for jewelry and $309,856,341 for millinery, making a total of $1,245,013,818 as compared with the $192,142,000 that Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin spent in 1926 for expenses and interest charges on outstanding bonds.

More than one hundred and fifty exhibits of machines, lotions, creams and powders will be set up for the beauty culturists. Interpretations of headdress, the giving of a perfect marcel wave, and a demonstration of finger waving will make up the program at the opening session.

Fashion forecasts in the cutting, shaping and dressing of hair will feature the second day's program. Corrective hair dyeing and scalp epidermology are listed for the final session.

In the United States there are 40,000 shops and more than 75,000 women engaged in the work, Mr. Behan says. The zone embraced by the convention, including Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio, Missouri, Michigan, Minnesota and Iowa, has 25,000 beauty shop owners and operators.

Woman Auctioneer Has Great Success

Bournemouth, England—(AP)—When Mrs. Ernest Comer of Christchurch road, Bournemouth, mounts the rostrum of one of the leading auction rooms in this town and begins wielding the hammer, dealers sit up and take notice.

For although Mrs. Comer is a pioneer of her sex in the strenuous profession of auctioneering, she is acknowledged by male competitors to be one of the cleverest in England. With true womanly intuition she is keen to drive a bargain and this ability, together with the feminine "gift of gab" has contributed greatly to her success.

Mrs. Comer took up auctioneering about 10 years ago, when, owing to her husband's illness, she was compelled to become the family bread winner. Mr. Comer now acts as her clerk.

Furniture is Mrs. Comer's specialty, and her husband is an expert on pictures.

"But I have sold motor cars and many other articles by auction, with success," she added.

The "open house" meeting held by the Dixon Lodge of Moose was well attended on Wednesday evening. The meeting was presided over by Charles D. Trotter.

Refreshments were served and a pleasant social hour spent after the address. On next Wednesday evening, April 3rd, there is to be another "open house" meeting and the public is invited.

300 ENLIST AS NURSES AFTER WEEK'S CAMPAIGN

Washington (AP)—An estimated 300 nurses were added to the American Red Cross corps during "Jane Deano recruiting week" when trained nurses all over the country gave talks before girl seniors in high schools and younger nurses in hospitals to encourage enlistment in the corps.

Jane Delano was head of Red Cross nurses during the world war and died in France shortly after the armistice was signed.

In its Washington headquarters the Red Cross maintains an enrollment of nurses. Under its charter from congress the service is the official reserve for the United States army and navy nurse corps. The nurses are available in time of disaster or epidemic and there are now 47,000 qualified under Red Cross regulations who may be mobilized in time of emergency. This is the largest number the organization has ever had enrolled.

Kellogg Now Free to Take European Jaunt

Washington, March 29—(AP)—Frank B. Kellogg was free today to carry out his plans for a vacation in Europe before returning to the practice of law at St. Paul after his four years of service to the nation as its chief pilot in foreign affairs.

Preparing to leave Washington yesterday to take passage on the Ile de France, he relinquished the post of Secretary of State in favor of Henry L. Stimson.

The renunciation of law negotiates during his administration, but did not appoint that it could not be made effective before his retirement.

The former Secretary plans to visit Paris, however, and there he may have the satisfaction of celebrating the event over which he hoped to preside with the French Minister, Aristide Briand, whose name is linked with his in the popular designation of the pact.

Of the fifteen original signatories of this treaty, thirteen have completed action on it and filed their ratifications with the State Department. The other two, France and Japan, are expected to complete these formalities in the near future, and their action will serve to bring the treaty into force.

FRANCE DIGGING IN AGAIN.

It will be a long time before the military men get through studying the lessons taught them by the World War.
When, in 1914, the Germans swept across the Belgian and French border and pounded the great chains of fortifications to pieces with their big guns, it was taken for granted that the day of fortified frontiers, in the old sense, was ended. Forts were held nothing better than traps for their garrisons.

Now, however, France is spending huge sums on frontier fortifications.
Careful study of the war's developments, it is said, has convinced the French army men that the forts were more valuable than was supposed. Alterations have been made in designs, to be sure; but since any new war between France and Germany would doubtless be another trench war, the French are determined to have the nucleus of a great trench system ready for use if the occasion arises.

BAD NEWS FROM CHINA.

The latest news from China is discouraging.
Just when it seemed that the new Nationalist government had been firmly established, new revolts have broken out. Various independent chieftains have revolted and are trying to set up separate states. Segments of the national army are in open mutiny. The government is crippled by acute financial difficulties. And on top of everything else, one of China's periodic famines is in sway.
China has tremendous latent possibilities. They cannot be realized until a firm, orderly government is established. Every friend of peace and progress will regret the country's new troubles.

MUSCLE SHOALS AN OLD ISSUE.

If you think that the question of what to do with the vast water power resources at Muscle Shoals is a problem confined to post-war years, you're mistaken. It was one of the earliest problems raised in our national life.
Records of the American Philosophical Society, in Philadelphia, show that the question arose as far back as 1802. In that year, the society's minutes show the following entry: "Donations: a plan for Mussel Shoals, Tennessee. Mr. Vaughn appointed to obtain from Sam Brown, of Lexington, some further account of it for publication."
Unfortunately, the record ends there, so there is no way of telling whether the early philosophers favored government operation or outright sale to the Henry Ford of that period.

A New York critic says the talkies, in bringing to every Main Street the music shows of Broadway, will give the small towns a new kind of civilization. They may be able to overcome it, however.

Today's question: "Why do they call so many of the cities along the Florida coast line 'watering places'?"

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

Once more the Tinies were alone. Said Clowzy, in a grieving tone, "Just think! With both the coal men gone, we don't know where we are. There's not a single soul in sight. I surely hope that we're all right. This must be miles from where we were, 'cause we have traveled far."

"As I recall, not long ago the four of us were down below the ground, inside a little mine, and since we left that place, we've traveled down a long, long hill. We kept on going fast until we reached the spot that we're on now. Oh, what a useless chase!"

"Don't be so silly," Scouty said. "Why stay right here? Let's move ahead and look around the country. We may find a town nearby. I'm just as hungry as can be, and food would look real good to me." "Don't mention food," cried Coppy, "cause it only makes me sigh."

And, as they talked they walked along, though none of them felt very strong. "Course Clowzy dragged behind. He was a very lazy sort. 'My feet are getting tired,' said he. 'And, very frankly, I can't see why we don't stop a little while and rest. This is no sport.'"

Just then they heard a buzzing sound. The Tinies stopped and looked around. "It came from in the air," cried one. "Can anybody see just what is flying 'round up there?" They all looked right up in the air. Then Carpy shouted, "There's a man. He's in a tub. Oh, gee!"

And sure enough, upon the breeze a tub was floating 'round with ease. It had some great big funny wings. It dipped from left to right. The man inside stood up and cried, "I see you, Tinymites. Don't hide, 'cause I'll be down to join you soon. I'm quite a funny sight."

LOUGHRAN WINS FROM WALKER BY SKILLFUL BOXING

But Fight was Financial Loss to Champions of Light Heavies

BY PAUL R. MICHELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Chicago, March 29.—(AP)—Tommy Loughran, boxer courageous still rules the light heavyweights of the world.

Throwing up his most formidable defensive weapon, a straight left jab, the phlegmatic Philadelphia Irishman easily retained his crown last night by repulsing the pug-nosed, heavy firing middleweight champion Mickey Walker, over the 10 round route in the new $7,000,000 Chicago Stadium.

The battle, strictly one between a good big man in Loughran and a mighty little man in Walker, was fought before 20,000 spectators, who paid approximately $175,000 to see it. Loughran obtained the verdict of the two judges, Eddie Klein and Phil Collins. The referee, Davey Miller, cast his ballot for the challenger, whose dream of equalling the triple title record of the great Bob Fitzsimmons was shattered.

Won by Boxing
Loughran won because he was a superb boxer. He waged a running, jabbing fight and belted Walker with resounding snatches whenever the New Jersey bulldog made his characteristic two-fisted rush. Loughran never had Mickey in trouble, and was content to pile up his wide margin by his brilliant boxing skill.

Walker had but one chance last night. That was in the fifth round when he nailed the champion with a terrific right cross to the jaw. Loughran reeled, his eyes were glassy and he appeared to be in pain. Sensing victory, the bull dog rushed, aiming his flying fists at the same spot. But Loughran, always a smart fighter, tied him up each time, shook the cobwebs from his brain and stalled the nearly disastrous round out.

Tide Turned
It was the only exciting round of the match and from that time on the tide turned steadily to the champion. Loughran recovered his poise in the sixth round and never again was Mickey able to break through with any telling effect. In the ninth round, Loughran decided to show his critics he was willing to trade punches. He caught a few light smashes in this exchange, and then crept back into his shell and stayed there, holding Walker off with his reliable left.

The fight itself was a disappointment to the large crowd, the largest indoor fight assembly in Chicago's history, because of its purely defensive nature.

Financial Loss
Financially, it was a loss for Loughran. Under the terms of his contract, he received 55 per cent or approximately $37,000. Out of this he had to pay Walker $50,000 and $13,000 to Leo Lomski and Tuffy Griffith, who fought a rollicking 10-round semi-windup. Thus, he had left a gross profit of but $4,000 for himself, his manager and for expenses.

Morally, however, it was a big night for Loughran. Not only did he retain his title, but his victory kept him in the rank of the outstanding contenders for the vacant heavyweight throne. Defeat would have dropped him definitely from consideration there.

The battle between Lomski and Griffith, which Griffith won, was the bright spot of the program. They traded heavy smashes for ten rounds and the crowd roared its approval. By his victory, Griffith won a promise from Harmon for a match with Loughran for the title.

ARMY ATHLETES GETTING READY TO MEET RIVALS

Much Unusual Activity at Military Academy
Sports Circles

By BRYAN BELL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
West Point, N. Y., March 29.—(AP)—Any timid robin who wonders if spring really has come may find that he is unduly conservative by paying a visit to the United States Military Academy.

With a whoop of enthusiasm hundreds of devotees of half a dozen sports have rushed from indoor practice places to the wide open spaces of the big reservation.

Scorning chill March winds, sprinters, hurdlers and weight men have started work in earnest. With a record of unbroken meet successes for two years, Coach Leo Novak and his associates are believed to be looking with some apprehension at the shadows cast before by New York University athletes.

With a new coach in charge, a big LaCrosse squad is preparing for a ten game schedule. F. Morris Touchstone, formerly at Yale and Johns Hopkins, is coaching lacrosse, a game which has the endorsement of Biff Jones, the football coach, who says that if a football player has to play some game other than the game of games, lacrosse is as good as any.

The army tennis team for the first time has a coach, George S. Ward, and a 12 game schedule will be played, many of the matches on new courts. There is no waste space at West Point so tennis played in the spring and summer at the place where hockey is king in winter—when there is enough ice.

"Moose" McCormick, former New York Giant, after an indoor siege, has led his baseball players out of doors and will be ready to open the season with Vermont, April 10. The great pinch-hitter's baseball alma mater, the Giants, will invade the army stronghold April 15, as a curtain raiser to the National League opening the next day.

Only the golf team is still held to indoor practice as the miniature course at West Point is not yet open for play, and the polo team has made up its mind that it can not play on the new polo field before October, if then.

Alexander Promises Another Good Season
St. Petersburg, Fla., Mar. 29.—(AP)—On the first day of the trek northward, the St. Louis Cardinals landed the spring championship, if that means anything, by again whipping the New York Yankees. "Old Pete" Alexander gave promise of a big season when he let the world champions down with three hits in six innings.

Cubs Win Despite Pitchers' Failure

El Paso, Tex., Mar. 29.—(AP)—Good pitching is still a rare art with the Cubs, but their tremendous hitting power is winning ball games. They bunched 11 hits yesterday to defeat the Detroit Tigers 9 to 7, making it six victories over seven games over the Harris clan. BLAMES STANDARD COMPANY FOR ALL OF HIS TROUBLES

Louisiana Chief Executive to Defend Himself Monday Evening

Baton Rouge, La., March 29—(AP)—The Standard Oil Company today had been drawn into impeachment proceedings by Governor Huey P. Long, who charged its agents instigated the accusations from official misdeeds to a plot to murder against which he must defend himself Monday night before the House of Representatives sitting as a supreme grand jury.

In a signed statement, Governor Long charged the oil company was attempting "to tear the state wide open and to remove the Governor from office who dares to mention that any thing can be done with them."

He accused the company with spending ten thousand dollars in opposing his proposed tax on oil, saying "money was turned loose in Baton Rouge." He denounced the newspapers as Standard Oil publications with their pages covered "with every imaginable lie and vilification."

"The (Standard Oil Company) have stormed the state house to where the weak hearted dfeared for the life and safety of my supporters and myself," he asserted. By some process, known only to them, they have been able to either take over, to beat over or to buy over, some in whom I reposed respect and confidence and for whom I yet indulge a charity.

This is the third time in my yet young life in which this nefarious corporation has been able to drag me before the bar to fight for my own liberty and political preservation, all just because I fought down the line until they were compelled to submit to right," declared the Governor.

"I had rather go down to a thousand impeachments than to admit that I am Governor of the state that does not dare to call the Standard Oil Company to account so that we can educate our children and care for the destitute, sick and afflicted. Rather than be Governor of this state with these conditions when I am pledged to correct it, I will give myself over to the impeaching authority any time."

Wash clothes in water softened with Melo—save 1/3 to 1/2 the usual amount of soap

CLOTHES washed in hard water are hard to get clean. The hardness in the water combines with the soap and makes scum. The scum collects dirt. It gets into the fabric of the clothes. No amount of rinsing can get it all out.

But soften hard water with Melo and there isn't any scum. The water makes wonderful suds. Melo saves from 1/3 to 1/2 the amount of soap ordinarily used. With or without soap, water softened with Melo is a wonderful cleaner. Get it at your grocer's.

PROVISIONS FARM BILL BEGINNING TO ASSUME FORM

House Agriculture Committee Making Progress in Work

Washington, March 29—(AP)—Based upon the broad, general suggestions for farm relief laid before the country in the campaign speeches of President Hoover, a farm aid bill is beginning to take form in the House Agricultural committee.

A farm board, price stabilization agencies and a revolving fund appear to be the three epochs that will form the foundation upon which the agricultural aid structure is being reared. The details of the superstructure, rough hewn and incomplete in many spots, are coming to view day by day as the hearings proceed.

Much of the work will remain to be done after the hearings are ended, but the general outlines of the measure will have been drafted before that time and for the most part only details of the operation of the plan will need to be added.

As an indication of the firmness with which the committee has seized upon the idea of a farm board, witnesses are being requested to confirm their testimony to suggestions as to how such a board should operate. Other testimony largely appears incidental to the farm board and stabilization ideas.

Two definite details seem to have been determined in connection with the stabilization corporations, both in line with suggestions by co-operative leaders yesterday. They urged that if stabilization corporations were to be formed, the farm board initiate such steps only upon the appeal of the marketing agencies for action. The other phase that appears likely to be written into the bill is a provision that stockholders in the stabilization corporations shall be members of the cooperative groups.

The stabilization plan, designed to "take certain surplus products off the market when needed, is strongly urged by one group. Directly the opposite view has been taken, however, by several of the leaders of the co-operative marketing agencies, who hold that the only way to tackle the surplus problem is through a reduction of acreage.

Lenten Thoughts

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

There is a story of St. Foix, a French nobleman, who was troubled about the youthful and revolutionary enthusiasms of his son, who had a passion to redeem society. St. Foix took the young man aside, pulled open the doors of a cabinet concealing a crucifix, and remarked, "My son, behold the fate of a reformer."

St. Foix spoke better than he knew. The Cross has indeed been the fate of the reformer, and it was the fate of the greatest reformer of all, Jesus of Nazareth, who sought not merely to reform but to redeem the world.

St. Foix's son may have been dissuaded from his reforming enthusiasms by his father's calculating and cynical reference to the Cross; but it is worth while to realize that those who have had sincere passion for love and righteousness and who have had at heart the world's salvation have not been dissuaded from the way of love and service even because of the Cross.

Nothing so indicates the divinity in humanity as the persistent quest of truth and righteousness even though the way be cross and thorny and there be the Cross at the end. Jesus might well have despaired of reaching men with his message had he not known this deep quality in human life.

It was because of this that he made his appeal, trusting that men would follow him, and his appeal was not in vain. The disciples left all and followed him, and there were those who were willing to go with him even to the Cross.

Burglar Alarm on Tree Caught Thief

Chicago, Mar. 29—(AP)—Frank Lorenz was sick and tired of planting trees, watching their growth carefully, attending to their every want, and then having them stolen.

So he took steps. On each tree he arranged a burglar alarm and over his head he placed a bell.

Early today the bell rang, Lorenz ran out and caught Tony Osucha. To the police Osucha confessed that he had been drinking but indignantly denied stealing any trees.

"What," he asked, "would I do with a tree?"

McBride Says Wets Will Lose in Fight

Washington, Mar. 29—F. Scott McBride, General Superintendent of the Anti-Ga'oon League, describes the efforts of the wets in the Illinois House in favor of a bill to repeal the Illinois prohibition act as "the same old fight by the same old wets who have continuously opposed prohibition for the past fifteen years."

Mr. McBride, in his statement, predicted that even if the necessary majority should be obtained in the House, the Senate would stop the move.

FATHER OF KEY WITNESS KILLED ON EVE OF TRIAL

Los Angeles Officials Mystified by Shoot- ing Last Night

Los Angeles, Mar. 29.—(AP).—The mysterious slaying of Jack Crawford, 42, former policeman and father of Donald Crawford, a key witness for the prosecution in the trial of eight persons charged with "framing" the arrest of Councilman Carl L. Jacobson on a morals charge, was under investigation here today.

Crawford was slain in his home last night, on the eve of his son's scheduled appearance on the witness stand. Police were told that a man known only as "Evans" had warned the elder Crawford that he would be killed if he allowed Donald to testify. The prosecution alleges that Jacobson's arrest was "framed" by underworld characters.

Donald told police that a strange man had offered his father $5,000 if the parent would persuade him, Donald, to leave Los Angeles.

Crawford was shot twice, once through the head and then through the heart, while standing at a telephone in his home.

Councilman Jacobson expressed the opinion that the killing was not connected with the "framing" case, in which a woman, Mrs. Callie Grimes, five policemen and a politician are on trial. He said he believed that any bullets designed to stop Donald Crawford's testimony would have been directed at Donald, and not at his father.

Police were working on one theory that Crawford met his death as the result of having been mixed up in a bootleg war. A third theory was that he was shot by someone in the house. According to Mrs. Crawford she was in the next room and the two sons, Donald and Jack, Jr., were in the front yard when they heard the shots. Officers said the kitchen gave evidence of a death struggle, while blood stains were found in four rooms.

POETS' CORNER

THE GROCER

To live one must eat and to eat is to live,
So food every being requires.
The grocer indulges in work positive,
And sells what each person desires.

He stands at the counter contented
And calm, and pleased when a customer comes.
The jingle of cash is a lullaby and balm,
He smiles while he's adding the sums.

Arranged on the shelves in attractive array
Are countless containers of food;
The labels are bright as the advent of day
And gleam in the night's solitude.

There's apples and peaches, tomatoes and peas,
And plums, pears and apricots, too;
Pineapples and quinces, sweet cherries and cheese,
Corn, cabbage and grapes are in view.

Asparagus, carrots, spinach in a row,
Sauer kraut and spaghetti and squash;
Sweet potatoes and soda add much to the show,
And soap for the bath or the wash.

Pumpkins and canned mushrooms,
And lobster and shrimp,
And hominy, salmon, sardines,
Pimientos and olives trade-marked by the imp.

And mustard and catsup and beans,
Grape fruit and bananas, oranges and tea,
And coffee and sugar and flour,
And onions and red beets and pepper I see,
And salt and wine vinegar sour.

Strawberries, raspberries, blackberries are there,
And cookies and crackers, of course.

THE RULES

1.—The idea of letter golf is to change one or two letters in a word to make another word. Thus to change COW to HEN, is three strokes. COW, HOW, HEW, MEN.

2.—You can change only one letter at a time.

3.—You must have a complete word of common usage, for each punning word and abbreviation don't count.

4.—The order of letters cannot be changed.

One solution is printed on page 11.

The cows on the milk cans are groomed with great care;
The Gold Dust Twins sue for divorce.

And all of the articles now in his store
Have prices displayed close at hand;
You don't have to ask what it costs any more
To buy any package or brand.

The grocer's highway is a worthy highway,
With sunshine and shower to endure;
He smiles on the customer who will not pay,
Or shares of his gain with the poor.

To him I administer phrases of praise;
To him may the future be kind;
To him may the splendor and light of the days
Leave all of his troubles behind.

—Special Good Friday services to commemorate the Crucifixion of Christ. The subject of the meditation will be "The Cross, A Symbol of Judgment." Rev. Fischer will sing an appropriate vocal selection.
Surely every Christian will desire to observe Good Friday as it should be observed. What better way can he do this than by worship, prayer and meditation? Without the passion and death of Christ the Christian religion would be a mere sentiment. A crucified Christ alone can save man from sin. Let us worship on this day and give thanks for the great sacrifice which was offered for us.

10 a. m. Easter Sunday. Special festival service with Holy Communion, sermon by the pastor and special music. There will be an offering lifted for the benefit of the synodical colleges and seminaries. All who desire to take Holy Communion please announce your intention before Sunday morning. Everyone is cordially invited to rejoice with us in this great Festival of the Resurrection. The Christ who died and rose from the dead is still a living Saviour in the hearts of all true Christians.

FOCH: SOLDIER, PATRIOT
Editor, Telegraph—The world owes the most excited tribute to the late Ferdinand Foch, World War field marshal of France, commander of the allied armies and international hero. In the annals of all the world's wars the name of no more conspicuous and capable military commander has been recorded and no greater genius with a greater degree of modesty. The genius and dogged perseverance of Foch in the defense of Verdun, which brought into play the greater part of Germany's military skill and reserves, saved France and her European allies and filled the period of waiting until the help from the U. S. should arrive.

Even when hope had been virtually abandoned and Verdun was an inferno Frenchmen stood fast to the vow that the enemy should not pass. Foch was not a great commander in the Great, a Napoleon or a Wellington. He was more than that. He was a master of detail, a past graduate in military science, with the characteristics of a great engineer and bar and spai and drives with unerring accuracy to successful and glorious finish.

And after all what a pitiful commentary that the great victory of Foch and his allied commanders should have been so ingloriously belittled by the politicians at Versailles! How often has it been said, it's solemn truth that if peace had been made by Foch and Pershing and Haig and lesser of the allied commanders, what a different peace we would have had—a peace that would have been a real peace, a com-fact between brave men who had fought brave enemies, and could have been both just and generous in signing a practical and permanent peace. Such men as Foch are honored even by their wartime enemies, because he was brave, because he was a patriot of cleanest fibre. But Foch is gone. We cannot tell him these things now, even though he may have sensed them and the world's approval.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

BY EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma

Russell R. Whitman, publisher of the Atlanta Georgian, says:

"That 'Buy a Home First' is the slogan that should be broadcast to all corners of the land. A nation of homes is impregnable. It is a rock against which the turbulent waves of socialism, communism and anarchy can beat in vain. Create a desire in the minds of men and women to own a home, to live in peace and contentment under their own 'fig and vine tree' and then make it easy for them to own their homes and an inestimable service to the state and nation will have been rendered. We will have preserved the nation for that true liberty, justice and equality which formed the high purpose of its founders and the glory of our civilization."

Realtors must be the home builders of the nation. Upon them rests a great responsibility and a great opportunity. Make all Americans home owners and all America will be made forever safe for the home. To have a place he can call his own makes a man jealous of his own rights and privileges and equally appreciative of the rights and privileges of others. This is the basis of true democracy.

Realtors, therefore, have a great service that they can render to the community. Quoting President Coolidge: "The eternal lesson of the age—" those who would have must save." This is only another way of saying that "those who serve best profit most."

If the realtors of any city have high ideals, if they give of their time to making of their home city a good town in which to live, if they join in all enterprises looking toward the beautification of their city, to its educational and recreational advantages, to parks and boulevards, to cleanliness, to its industries, they will contribute a service that will come back to them a thousandfold in the way of profits.

Ask Resignation of Clinton Police Head

As a result of some rather sensational evidence which came out in the learning in Clinton, Ia., of the police and fire commission investigation of the dismissal of Officer Carl Johnson from the police force, the board also recommended that Chief of Police James Sloppy resign. The chief says he has no intention of resigning and that he is absolutely clear of any wrong doing and is satisfied to stand on his record while in office.

If you had to Make 5 gallons of your Good Cream sauce wouldn't you do it a Little at a Time?

MAKING cream sauce in large quantities and roasting coffee in bulk present similar difficulties. The cream sauce becomes lumpy and the coffee roasts unevenly.

Hills Bros. roast every pound of their coffee evenly because, by a continuous process, only a few pounds at a time pass through the roasters. The development of the flavor is perfectly controlled. Uniform strength and richness are assured. You enjoy this goodness in every cup.

This exact process is Hills Bros.' exclusively. Naturally the flavor it produces is not found in any other coffee. No wonder that coffee-lovers everywhere drink Hills Bros.

Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum. All the appetizing aroma and satisfying flavor come to you intact. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the ArBb, the trademark, on the can.

The unvarying flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is controlled the same way—only a few pounds are roasted at a time by a continuous process

Fresh from the original vacuum pack. Easily opened with the key.

Stillmans Again in Spotlight

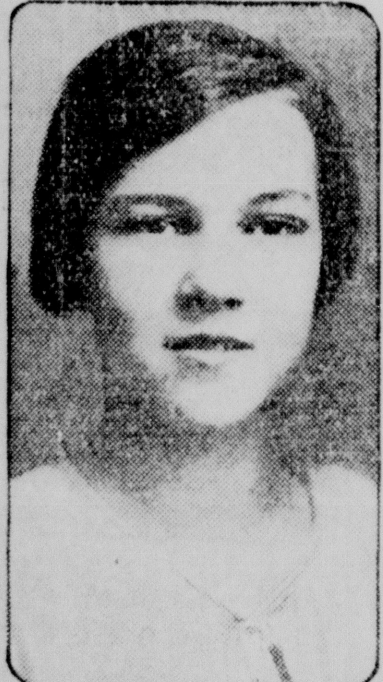

Again the family affairs of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stillman are in the spotlight, the latter having been turned on them this time by the slander suit brought against Stillman by Fred Beauvais, Indian guide whom Stillman charged 10 years ago was the father of Mrs. Stillman's child. Red-headed Flo Leeds, ex-show girl, whose love for Stillman cooled after the divorce battle, is named as a co-defendant. Above is Miss Leeds with her child; at the right, Beauvais, and below him Mr. and Mrs. Stillman.

She'll Be "England's Sweetheart"

English films soon will have their own "Mary Pickford"—but she will be an American. Louise DuPre, above, who in several pictures has understudied and even doubled for "America's sweetheart" because of their striking resemblance, has sailed for England to make her debut in a London studio under the name of "Bates Goodwin." And it will be her own name, too, since she just has been married to Major A. B. Goodwin, New York engineer.

She Reversed Verdict of U. S. Chief Justice!

Little Helen Terwilliger was right and Chief Justice Taft of the United States Supreme Court was wrong—and just let him try to get out of it now. When he administered the oath of office to President Hoover, Helen, pictured above, was listening in from her home in Walden, N. Y. Helen is only 13, but she has studied her civics in school and knows that "preserve, protect and defend" is the phrase used in the Constitution. After hearing him say "preserve, maintain and defend," she wrote him a letter about it. Chief Justice Taft admitted a misquotation, but denied that he had made it just that way. But the Fox Movietone film, right, recording the sound and sight of the inauguration ceremony, reverses the decision made by the nation's chief jurist.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MILDRED LAWRENCE, stenographer in the Judson Hotel, has her eye for a handsome young man who is a train platform crowd, but STEPHEN ARMITAGE catches the thief and returns her scarf. He asks to take her home, and not wishing to seem ungrateful, she invites him to dinner. He takes her mother's home cooking and also gains favor with the flapper sister, CONNIE, who secretly hates that the old-fashioned Mildred will mix enough pep with her usual quiet manner to hold his interest.

The evening is spoiled, however, when PAMELA JUDSON, daughter of Mildred's employer, phones and insists on her coming back to the hotel for duty. Stephen escorts Mildred to the hotel where Pamela recognizes him as the salesman who had sold her a car. She asks him to dance with her in the ballroom and snubs Mildred when he pays her attention.

Pamela continues to lure Stephen, pretending she intends to buy another car from him. But her temper flares when she takes him to a country club dance and he leaves her alone more than she thinks he should. So when they start home she asks him to get out and look for a rear fender and leaves him. But her reckless driving causes a near wreck when the car crashes past danger signals into some broken road.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IV
BEARING down upon Pamela with terrific speed was a big roadster with a driver as reckless as herself at the wheel. The big headlights swept over the road like two monsters. Pamela sat paralyzed with fright.

If the other failed, as she had done, to slow in response to the warning of the red lights set by the roadside, nothing could avert a smash.

The instinct for self-preservation swept over her then in an irresistible flood. She did not even think of using the horn to signal a warning as she jumped from her car and ran.

A few feet away she tripped and fell. Covering tears, half-stunned, she waited for the inevitable crash. She heard a motor roar, springs taking cruel jolts, a medley of sounds caused by widely flung wooden planks and the crash of glass.

A battered lantern fell a short distance away from her. The roar of the motor diminished. Bewildered, Pamela lifted her head.

Pamela scrambled to her feet and looked about her. Perhaps a hundred feet down the road she saw the other car. It was overturned in the ditch.

SUMMONING what courage she could muster, Pamela ran to give assistance.

She saw to one until she climbed over the upturned side of the car. Then she drew back with a startled cry. Squared in her face someone had thrust a gun.

She started to lower herself to the road again and retreat, but a man raised his head over the side of the car and spoke to her.

"Go and get your car off the road," he ordered, "before you cause a wreck."

Pamela slid to the ground and stopped. "You'd better bring a flashlight and help me," she said truthfully. She was frightened, but she didn't like being ordered to do anything.

The man's eye narrowed. "If this is a holdup," he said with deadly calm, "go back and tell your friends that I left the money where you got it. Then they can change it for me out of this."

Pamela stared at him blankly. Then she began to laugh. "Oh, my lucky star! What a whale of an adventure! So you think I'm holding you up?"

"What were you doing, blockading the road?"

"I saw my car. Why didn't you stop?"

"I'm alone and more at your mercy than you are at mine."

"I'll just see what's what first," the man said.

They made their way back to Pamela's car and she showed him the blown-out tire.

"I don't see how you missed hitting me," she said, meaning the car.

"Oh, I saw it in plenty of time."

"But you didn't slow up much."

"Just enough to get around you. It looked like the safest thing to do."

"I nearly died of fright."

THE man laughed. "Take your flash and guard the road while I get your car to one side," he said, and Pamela hastened to obey him.

In a few minutes they were in a safer spot and the tire was changed in less time than Pamela ever had seen it done before. The man had remarkably skillful hands.

"What about your car?" she said. "Don't you think we can get it out?"

"If you're worried about giving

Pamela introduced her brother to Huck. Huck had heard of Harold Judson and knew his weakness.

"Stop? When . . . well, never mind. It looked to me like a holdup. I had reason to believe it would be attempted. But what are you doing across the road like that? Don't you know it's dangerous?"

"Don't it? If you don't come and help me there'll be enough automobile accessories strewn along here for some farmer to start a garage."

She noticed that he held the gun in his hand as he climbed from the car. It amused her. Her fear was gone now. Had he wished to harm her there was no reason for all this talk about holdups.
